

NEW MUSIC THURSDAY ARCHIVE FOR 1/24/08:

- Deepfield – Into The Flood ****1/2 (Album: Archetypes and Repetition)

Review: You know why I love this song?? The first line of the song is..."I wanna write your name into my flesh..." Isn't that hott??? Other than the first line of this song..."Into the Flood" is a song you don't want to miss. First off...Deepfield has a kick ass lead singer and their guitar riffs are second to none...and this song just basically puts it all together in one. (That rhymed!!! HI-YO!) I want to say that these guys sound like Breaking Benjamin/Hinder/Mudvayne all rolled up into one...just different sounds! Just listening to this song...makes you want to buy their album...I'm gonna do that eventually...☺

- Backbone - Feel It **** (Album: ...Still Nowhere)

Review: Backbone...a local band from Columbus, Ohio...let me tell you...they are original. "Feel It" has riffs like Saliva would have in most of their songs...but the lead singer of the band has an original voice that really can't be copied...unless you compare them to Saliva (Hence them sounding like Saliva). This new single is getting them on the rock charts sometime soon...and that's why I love small time radio, play the bands now and then 5 months later, they are on other radio stations! I love my job!!!

- Shraphead – Stolen Trust **** (Album: N/A)

Review: You can tell that Shraphead is a new bad...they're from Norway and they don't have a CD out!!! "Stolen Trust" is one of their new demo songs...and yours truly of course got a hold of one. If you listen to this song carefully...it has a Killswitch/Avenged Sevenfold feel to it...and the singer kinda sounds like Ben Burnley from Breaking Benjamin (That's right!!) I believe that in about...6 months or so, Shraphead will be found and they'll be the newest thing since sliced bread...or canned bread...

- Three Days Grace – Riot ***** (Album: One-X)

Review: Does this song need an introduction? I THINK NOT!!! "Riot" by Three Days Grace is my song of the week for New Music Thursday! I love this song so much...why? It's make you want to start a riot or jump in a mosh pit!!! And also...this song was on one of the older wrestling games and I can pretty much sing it by heart (Am I a dork or what?).

- Black Tide – Shockwave ****1/2 (Album: Light From Above)
Review: Black Tide’s MySpace describes them best...METAL, METAL, and METAL!!! I guess if you wanna compare this band...they would be a very harder Motley Crue...but without the crazy antics of Lee, Sixx, Mars and Neil. “Shockwave” has its uniqueness to it...a sweet-ass guitar solo in the break and some sweet vocals from the lead singer. Their new album “Light From Above” comes out March of this year...I suggest you check it out!

- Safety Suit – Someone Like You ****1/2 (Album: Life Left to Go)
Review: I really really like this new song by Safety Suit...and I fixed the problem I was looking for...they DO have a CD out!!! “Someone Like You” is an awesome song! You can’t really compare Safety Suit to anybody. (Unless you compare them to an actual Safety Suit...yes, I know that was lame.) This is a very original song that makes you basically wanna think if you can be someone like you or something like that. The title and the music...definitely go together. Their new album “Life Left to Go” is hitting shelves soon...and while you’re at it, check out their MySpace. MySpace.com/safetysuit.

Not a lot of bad music this week...an average rating of 4 stars!!! I love new music!

Remember to tune in every Thursday night on the Aftershock for “New Music Thursday!”

Do you know or have some new music you want me to play?
You think you know an artist on the rise?

E-mail me with your suggestions...

theshock@up.net

NEVER STOP ROCKIN’ ...unless you have to!